War Time Prices and Trade Board

TO ALL SALVAGE COMMITTEES

The Winnipeg Paper Company advises that owing to limited facilities at their plant, and at the consuming mill which they supply, they are not able to handle carlot shipments of paper as quickly as they are arriving from various points in the Prairie provinces.

While we do not want to discourage your waste-paper collections, it is imperative that you advise Winnipeg Paper Company a few days ahead of time when you will have a car for shipment.

Do not ship until you are advised by the Winnipeg Paper Company. Cars should not be loaded until advice is received from that Company.

ALL TIRES NOW RATIONED—Effective from Friday May 15th, all tires and tubes, new, second hand or treads, passed under a tire rationing order of the War-time Prices and Trade Board, made necessary to ensure supply of tires for airplanes anti-aircraft gun carriages and other weapons of war.

Canadian Agriculture

CANADIAN AGRICULTURE is now just as essentially a war industry, and just as vital to our war effort, as is the production of armaments. The old saying that an army travels on its stomach, is no doubt as true today as in the past. The first requisite of the army, navy and air force, both at home and abroad, is that the men and women who compose these services are provided with proper food and sustenance. It is not only our own Canadian forces that must be provided with food from Canada. Vast quantities of farm produce must be shipped, and has been shipped to Britain in order to sustain the populace and the fighting forces in the United Kingdom. In the first two years of war Canada has shipped more than three hundred million bushels of wheat and seven million barrels of flour. In the same period Canada shipped more than eight hundred million pounds of bacon and other pork products, one hundred and ninety-five million pounds of cheese, fifteen million dozen eggs, and thirteen million pounds of honey.

Facing The Situation Canadian farmers, knowing full well the urgency of the situation in the West, perhaps unfortunately, it has been found necessary to turn at least some extent from wheat growing to other crops that appear more essential for the prosecution of the war. A reduction this year of three per cent. in acreage sown to wheat in 1941 is indicated. Western Canada is particularly adapted for the growing of wheat, and this has always been our main crop. However, the necessities of war must now override other considerations, and this year more attention is going to be paid to the growing of flax, barley and other crops. Flax is needed to produce oil for our war industries, and barley will be used for feed for hogs to produce bacon for Britain. In this war it has been truly said that we are all in the front line, and the man on the land is bearing his full share of responsibility. He has been carrying on in the face of many adverse circumstances, and with grit and determination is prepared to do his full share in this fight for the preservation of democracy.

Meeting A Heavy Task Thus in entering the new crop year of 1942, the Canadian farmer has set himself to the task of producing the essential crops to the limit of his capacity. Farm products will be shipped to Britain in quantities only limited by the carrying capacity of ships and Canada's ability to produce. Given favorable growing conditions and a minimum of the set-backs that plague the life of the farmer, it is expected that the West will be able to contribute largely to the shipments going overseas. It is believed that measures will be taken to ensure sufficient help on the farm. Many farmers have enlisted for overseas service, but regulations have been provided in respect to enlistments to avoid any shortage of men that would seriously affect this important industry. Provision has also been made in respect to the supply of necessary parts to keep farm machinery in repair. And so the farmer puts his hand to the plough, not looking back, but with a grim purpose to do his part in a small way in this fight for victory.

Plans for a salvage campaign to retrieve tons of thousands of tons of scrap metal from Canadian farms are presented to Hon. J. T. Thorson, Minister of National War Services, by H. C. Ray, representative of the International Harvester Company of Canada, Limited. The company will use its 3,000 dealers across Canada to help get the scrap into the war effort. A. W. Wright and W. O. Maxwell, company officials, look on.

To Help Win War

Harvester Dealers In Drive For Scrap Iron From Farms

An organized effort to collect all the scrap metal possible from Canadian farms to help meet the critical war production need for scrap at the nation's foundries and factories was announced by Mr. C. Ray in charge of advertising and sales promotion for the International Harvester Company of Canada, Limited. The scrap collection campaign will be conducted by International Harvester dealers in localities and is part of a Dominion-wide drive for scrap from farms by Harvester dealers in 3,000 communities.

The drive, Mr. Ray said, is a contribution to the national salvage campaign and has received official sanction from Honourable J. T. Thorson, Minister, Department of National War Services. The campaign has been undertaken by the Harvester Company in the belief that the strategic location of its farm equipment and motor truck dealers in farm supply centres and their acquaintances with farmers prove the shortest cut to farm scrap collection on a large scale.

The plan calls for the establishment by the dealers of scrap collection depots to which farmers may bring all the scrap metal they can find on their farms and from these points the scrap will be transported quickly as possible to factories turning out guns, tanks, and other war supplies.

The scrap will be sold through regular salvage channels with remuneration to each farmer for the full amount his scrap brings. There will be no charge, no commission, or no profit in it for the Harvester dealer who performs his service as a patriotic duty.

"We are sure of the possibilities," Mr. Ray said, "of the enormous piles of scrap iron and steel on the country's farms. The estimates run into hundreds of thousands of tons. By this scheme dealers in farm supplies and dealers will have to reduce operations, the production of arms will slow down and more lives, time, and money will be spent in fighting the war."

"Practically every farm there is a lot of scrap iron and scrap that is badly needed right now. And knowing as we do that no people anywhere are more patriotic than farmers to a country of this kind, we believe the shortest cut to farm scrap collection is on a large scale."

Another Aid For Pilots

Delicate Instrument Warns Them Approaching Thunder Clouds

A "cloud charge indicator" has been devised to warn pilots when they approach dangerous thunder clouds. The delicate instrument consists of a neon tube and microammeter, connected to a pointed tungsten rod protruding 14 inches from the plane. Electrical discharges from clouds flash the neon tube and deflect a needle on the meter.

Hill Road? She stopped, stunned with the impact of this last thought. With determination she then urged Madcap forward. Shrugging her slender shoulders beneath their green sweater, she thought, "I am certainly getting to be a suspicious monster."

The old wagon track that she had known as a child had widened into a dusty road which trucks and cars cut out of the red clay. The narrow, weed-covered tracks that led to the Fettens, joined sharply to the wider road at a place hidden by thick undergrowth.

Beyond the junction there was a sharp rise in the mine road, concealing what lay ahead. It had been weeks since Tamar had crossed the top of the hill.

Below her lay the swimming hole.

She looked at the countryside around her. It was peacefully still and warm. The thought of the swimming hole drew her and she recalled vividly the last time that she had gone there.

"I'll ride Madcap to the top of the hill toward the mine," she thought.

Madcap picked her way daintily along the firm ground at the side of the dust. Her sleek coat shone in the sun and her proud little head was held high.

Tamar pulled on the bridle as they neared the rise, slowing Madcap's walk to a halt at the top.

Below her, just a few yards away, men were working on the road. There were three of them, picks and shovels in hand. They looked up sharply as she appeared, and one of them called out. "The road's being repaired. You'd better go back, Miss Randolph."

Tamar never knew afterward why she thought he sounded too excited merely to be warning her about the condition of the road. Without a word, she brought her head down sharply on Madcap's shoulders and started forward.

Tamar heard one of the men say something in a low tone. "There's a bad place here, the road's given out before—something," he called warily.

The next instant Madcap stepped into a deep ditch that had certainly not been visible, and Tamar thought of camouflage as she went over Madcap's head into the dust.

The men swore viciously. The mare had broken her leg and would have to be shot. "What in hell will we do with her? We haven't got long to decide."

Tamar lay in the dust, where she had fallen while they talked. She tried to sit up but was too dizzy. She began to realize they were frantically discussing her.

"Towne will give us hell for messin' this up."

"Who'd have thought she'd pick today to go to the mine? Jake, you'll have to take her some place in the car."

"We've got to shoot the mare and get her out of here before the truck comes along. Get that rope out of the car." Their voices were harsh with excitement.

Tamar knew a sickening wash of fear sweep over her. Kill Madcap? Why Madcap was one of the family. She cried out, but the men working furiously didn't pay any attention.

She stood up and the world whirled about her, but she walked slowly to the mare. She laid her head against that of the little roan, and knew that she would always remember the look in Madcap's eyes. She suddenly couldn't bear it any longer. Great wrenching sobs finally got Jake's attention.

"Lady, will you shut up that bawlin'? We've got troubles enough without havin' you waterin' the place. I'm sorry we've got to shoot her. She's a purty little thing."

"Don't get soft, Jake. Get away, Miss!" shouted one.

"Oh, don't kill her! Don't, please don't!" begged Tamar. In a frenzy she ran toward the man with the gun. "Don't, Oh, don't!"

Tamar saw that his face had brutally indelibly printed upon it. It was hard as steel and etched with lines of cruelty. He deliberately held her in the grip of one hand and aimed with the other.

When the shot rang out, Tamar was thrown viciously to one side. "Want a bullet for yourself?" He turned back to the men. "Hitch her on to the truck and drag her out, we've got to hurry."

Tamar watched in fascinated terror with tears streaming down her face, while they pulled Madcap out of the ditch and dragged her, with much swearing and backfiring of the truck. They took the dead animal back to the clump of undergrowth of the junction out of sight.

In her helplessness, rage possessed Tamar. Why was it important they hurry?

"Why will Major Towne be angry for this mess?" she asked coldly of Jake.

Jake said nothing. The man who seemed to be the leader finally threw down his pistol.

"She's your job Jake. Take care of her until this is over."

"What'll I do with her?"

"Put her in the truck and drive—my God!" he broke off, "Sister, you're sure in a tough spot! Fool women!" He called Jake to one side and they talked in low tones.

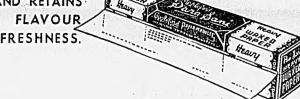

Without a word, Tamar started down the road toward home. She began to run. She must get home and warn her father about this. She knew now that she had been so concerned with Madcap that she had not given a chance for common sense to tell her what was about to happen.

She heard a car start up, and divining the men's purpose, broke through the wall of hedge, scratching herself on the thorns. But the driver had seen her. He threw on the brakes and followed her, catching her roughly by the arm.

She knew only one brief regret, before he picked her up and carried her to the car. It was not Jake.

Hints on Barley Seeding

Soil preparation—The seed bed should be as free as possible from weed growth and uniformly tilled, with the soil slightly lump on the top, but moist and fairly compact beneath.

A loose rough bed results in poor and uneven early growth, and the crop is likely to be weedy, with a relatively low yield of non-uniform grain.

Barley thrives best on heavy, fertile soil with an ample supply of moisture.

Seed preparation—While the recommended varieties vary somewhat in their reaction to coverd smut and root rots, none of them can be considered resistant; consequently all should be treated with a mercuric dust, such as celestan or levoston, unless special seed examination shows this to be unnecessary.

These are applied at the rate of one-half ounce per bushel of seed in a tight, efficient mechanical mixer not more than two or three months before seeding time.

Seeding date—In general higher yields and slightly longer straw are obtained from

Badly Burned

Mr. Robert Youngren who lives alone on his farm south of Chinook, while lighting his fire Saturday morning, powdered some coal oil on it which suddenly exploded, burning his body and one of his hands very badly. He managed to extinguish the flame and also managed to get his burning clothes off.

He rang the phone at his parents farm but was unable to speak. They rushed to his place and took him to the Cerebral Hospital where he is attended by Dr. Patton.

early sowing. However, on wild oats infested soil higher yields are obtained when seeding is delayed until a crop of wild oats has started well and been cultivated out. At Saskatoon, late May and early June sowing yielded very much less than early May sowings. The best yields were obtained from seedlings made the middle of May.

Congratulations!

NATIONAL WAR LABOUR BOARD
COST OF LIVING BONUS

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has found that the cost of living index number for April 1, 1942, of 115.9 [adjusted index 115] has not risen by one whole point or more over the index number for October 1, 1941, of 115.5 [adjusted index 114.6]. Accordingly, the National War Labour Board, pursuant to the provisions of Section 12 of Order in Council P. C. 8253, determines and announces, for the period May 15, 1942, to August 15, 1942, subject to the right of employers or employees to apply to a War Labour Board for authorization of payment of such an amount of cost of living bonus as a Board may determine to be "fair and reasonable," under the provisions of the Order, that:

- (a) There shall be no change in the amount or percentage of cost of living bonuses presently being paid;
- (b) An employer who has not been paying cost of living bonuses may not begin to pay such bonuses.

By Order of the National War Labour Board,

HUMPHREY MITCHELL
Minister of Labour and Chairman

CUPBOARD QUISLING!

"Cupboard Quislings"! Is that too hard a name for people who selfishly lay in unnecessary stocks of clothes or food, or other goods for fear of shortages?

No! The name is not too hard, even though it may be earned through thoughtlessness. For reality they are doing, in a petty, mean way, what the Quisling does in the open.

Anyone who buys more than is necessary for current needs—

Is breaking his country's law for personal advantage.

Is betraying his loyal neighbours and those who are not so well off as he.

Is, in effect, depriving our fighting men of the munitions and supplies they must have to defend us.

Is hindering our war effort and helping our enemies.

Loyal citizens avoid putting unnecessary and abnormal strains on our factories. In time of war, loyal citizens do not spend one dollar more on civilian goods than is absolutely necessary for current needs.

The law provides for fines up to $5,000 and imprisonment up to two years for hoarding; and hoarding is just another word for unnecessary selfish buying.

In cases where it is advisable for you to buy in advance of your immediate requirements—such as your next season's coal supply—you will be encouraged to do so by direct statement from responsible officials.
